About direct deposit

Direct deposit is a reliable, convenient way to receive monthly pension payments. Your pension payment is electronically deposited into your account at your financial institution. With direct deposit, your pension payment is safeguarded against delays during postal disruptions and is safely deposited into your bank account when you are away from home. Your financial institution will help you complete this form, if necessary.

If at any time the amount of your pension payment changes, Alberta Pensions Services Corporation (APS) will send a notice of the change to you at your home address. It is important for you to advise APS in writing of any change of address or of banking information. Please note that we are only able to deposit to financial institutions within Canada.
